Our Strengths

Saltbush Assurance brings to the marketplace a considerable amount of Information Security and Technical Assurance expertise.

Saltbush Assurance are experts in finding and exploiting vulnerabilities in web applications, gateways, and networks, and assisting in addressing these vulnerabilities in a methodical and deliberate manner.

Application code reviews are another service offered by Saltbush Assurance. These are a more in-depth form of technical assurance which can discover hard to find vulnerabilities even before the application has gone into production. We can perform anything from simple source code reviews to the complex reverse engineering of compiled code. This allows us to emulate the actions of a determined and methodical hacker in order to discover what vulnerabilities your compiled applications would reveal if examined thoroughly.

Saltbush Assurance can also perform digital forensics to discover evidence left behind on computers and other devices as part of a technical risk assessment or an incident response. Our analysts can locate traces of sensitive information left behind by your organisation's applications, or reconstruct the actions of malicious software.

Benefits we Deliver to Our Clients

Security is no longer an optional add-on - it is integrated from the ground up. Saltbush Assurance can help your organisation to develop realistic and cost effective objectives for your security strategy. We have developed security strategies, not only to protect business systems, but that comply with Government requirements and international standards.

We have a pragmatic approach to the delivery of our services, and our focus is on solving, rather than broadening, client issues.

We understand what security testing means to your business: identifying and mitigating immediate and systemic issues before disaster strikes. Therefore, we approach security testing not in isolation, but rather as part of a systemic security strategy.

We provide our clients with full data captures and video captures of any security assurance work that we perform. The data captures allows system owners to analyse the specific exploits that Saltbush Assurance used during our testing, to better defend against similar exploits. The video captures allow senior management to properly understand how the vulnerabilities in their infrastructure can be exploited, without the need to read through a large amount of technical documentation.

Being product agnostic, we are able to offer our clients unbiased advice and solutions that encompass a broad range of available marketplace options.

Our People

Our people know that technical security assurance is an evolving process that demands real security benefits while maintaining business functions. Although we prescribe proven methodologies, the ultimate driver is what works for your business.

We use proven, open source, and peer-reviewed methodologies, which ensure that our assessments are repeatable and thorough. We are able to customise our assessment methodology to meet the needs of your organisation.

Our people have extensive experience in Government, Defence and Industry sectors. The majority of our people also hold a range of National and Non-National security clearances up to and including TOP SECRET (PV).
